Must Be Interested in Community Welfare-Addresses at Rural Life Conference.

Henry F. Cope, secretary of the Religious Education Association, Chicago, spoke to-day before the Rural Life Conference at the University Summer ity Welfare." He said in part:

she is for practical purposes an earth interested in community welfare on the depends on it. But her business is that of community welfare; her duty is not to determine what heaven shall be like, but to get people heavenly, and to do this there must be provided the conditions which help people to become decent and high minded. Community welfare means more than making roads good for motors and houses attractive to aesthetic folks; it means making all the conditions and forces of life in a community work together most efficiently for the development of the best possible type of humanity. It means making communities competent to grow character. Growing religious character is the work of the church, her great chance in in leadership toward community unity and service through clubs, libraries, playgrounds and social groupings or folk."

Among the most interesting papers read before the conference were those by Mrs. F. L. Stevens, editor of the Woman's department of the Progressive has a charter Issued to-day for the Automatic Tufting Cox Machine to the Automatic Tufting Cox Ma

Miss Jennie Buell, lecturer for the Michigan State Grange, Ann Arbor, Mich. told what organization can do for farm homes. Perhaps the best thing organized effort does for the farmer, she said, is to stimulate his mental processes and train him in expression of his thought. Those organizations, like the Grange, that require progress of discussions upon farm, home and public affairs do this best. Spiritual growth is promoted in the farm home through associated effort. Ideals that require the putting down of self and learning to work for a cause are held out of necessity. Such workings together broadens and extends the outlook from the home, lifts the tone of its thought and conversation out of petty details and narrow jealousies and adds a social zest. By its very bigness organized effort sends its members back to their homes, humbler, better men and women—easier to live with.

A prominent minister, Rev. M. B. McNutt, of Plainfield, Ill., delivered two addresses to-day. This afternoon at 5 o'clock he spoke on the "Vitalizing of Rural Religious Forces," and tonight, in Cabell Hall, before a large audience, he discussed the topic, "Modein Methods in the Country Church—The Story of My Work."

low-out black lawn dress and in her stocking feet, a frail and really ill woman tottered from one of the passenger coaches at the Union Station here this afternoon when the train from Henderson arrived, and told the matron her name was Mary E. Physicians decided that whatever she had taken had so far spent liself as to show that there would be no fatal resurs. She said she was on her way to Goldsboro, from which place the telegram was sent. She explained that the baby had been carried to Seven Springs by the husband in the hope of saving its life, she having to remain in Henderson with friends, on account of being too ill to accompany her husband.

She had a ticket to Goldsboro that she had obtained from the ticket agent without money, on account of her sad plight, and declared that she was obliged to slip away from the friends with whom she was staying because they insisted she was not able to travel. She accounted for her remarkable dress in this way. She was al-

State Commissioner of Labor and Printing M. L. Shipman, just back from an inspection of the Cranberry mines in Avery county, following the killing of L. C. Tolley some weeks ago through the explosion of a charge of blast powder that had falled to go off when the fuse was lighted and then discharged from subsequent detonations of the drills, says that there is remarkably little political talk in the west, the people giving their attention to their work and to the entertainment of visitors that are invading the mountains for the summer. The summer visitors are the most numerous everknewn, and the weather conditions are fine as could be wished. He found in Avery county much stir over the question of locating the permanent county seat now at Elk Park. The vote will be taken within the next month, and Elk Park, Oldfield, To-Toe and Mantazuma are in the contest.

BREAK IN DROUGHT TOO LITTLE TO HELP HIGHLAND'S HAY CROP

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Montercy, Va., July 20.—The break in the long drought came too late to materially help the hay crop in Highland, and this, the county's chief harvest, will be the smallest in many years. There are some meadows that are scarcely worth mowing, while in one or two sections of the county, where local showers helped, the crop is much better. On the whole, however, Highland stockmen will go into the winter with an alarmingly small amount of feed. The grass in the pastures is short, but seems to have fine fattening quality, and stock is taking on rapidly.

TENSE SITUATION

Petition Circulated for Recall of Councilmen-Health Superintendent's Life Threatened.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Wilmington, N. C., July 30 .- Wil-Wilmington, N. C., July 30.—Wilmington is now passing through the crisis with the commission form of government, which was adopted in April. The commission has revolutionized things, handling matters with gloves off, and hence has made many enemies for the present, and friction is dense in the air.

A stringent law, calling for inspections of all places holding United States liquor licenses, and for such places to be guilty of a nuisance if liquor is found in them, caused a stir under the surface, and then when the liquor is found in them, caused a stir under the surface, and then when the commission made the merchants move all displays, no matter how small, from the streets, and later passed most rigid health laws, one calling for the banishment of all cows from the city, open revolt was manifest, and now the "supposed blind tiger" element is trying to cement the opposition. Aiready petitions have been circulated and liberally signed for a recall of all five Councilmen. But this movement for a standing with the Councilmen and intend to support them.

Showing how bitter is the feeling. Dr. Charles B. Nesbitt, the new superintendent of health, who is waging an uncompromising war on files, unscreened meats, cows, hogs and unsanitary conditions in general, to-day received a letter through the mail threatening his life and demanding he resign.
